

He was born in Franklin Center, Iowa. He had lived in Arizona, Montana and Colorado before coming to Nevada. He settled in Round Mountain in 1917. He was the discoverer of the mine now being worked (now being 1940) by the Northcumberland Mining Company. His mining partner was Chester Perrine. They sold the mine to Northcumberland in 1938.